To whom it may concern,

Drew Lindsay Real Estate has advertised in every issue of Highlife over the past thirteen years. It is the publication I suggest to vendors as most appropriate to attract high net worth individuals - the likely buyers of their properties. Over the years I have had countless opportunities to confirm that exposure in Highlife, of exclusive estates and quality real estate, does create awareness with the type of buyer we are seeking and does assist sales.

The diverse and engaging articles, coupled with the very high standard of production, has led to a continually expanding market for Highlife and it will continue to serve as a prominent part of my marketing plan for the interesting and high end properties we represent.
